

CYCLE COPS

Speeding patrolman facing forwards...

... changes his position without stopping.

Two men control three bikes at speed without sitting in the saddle.

Nine men and one bike add up to "Apollo 11" stunt.

This Week's PICTURE SHOW - AP News features.

With motorcycle patrolmen like these on their tails, motorists in and around Mexico City rush enough to break the law aren't very likely to get away with it.

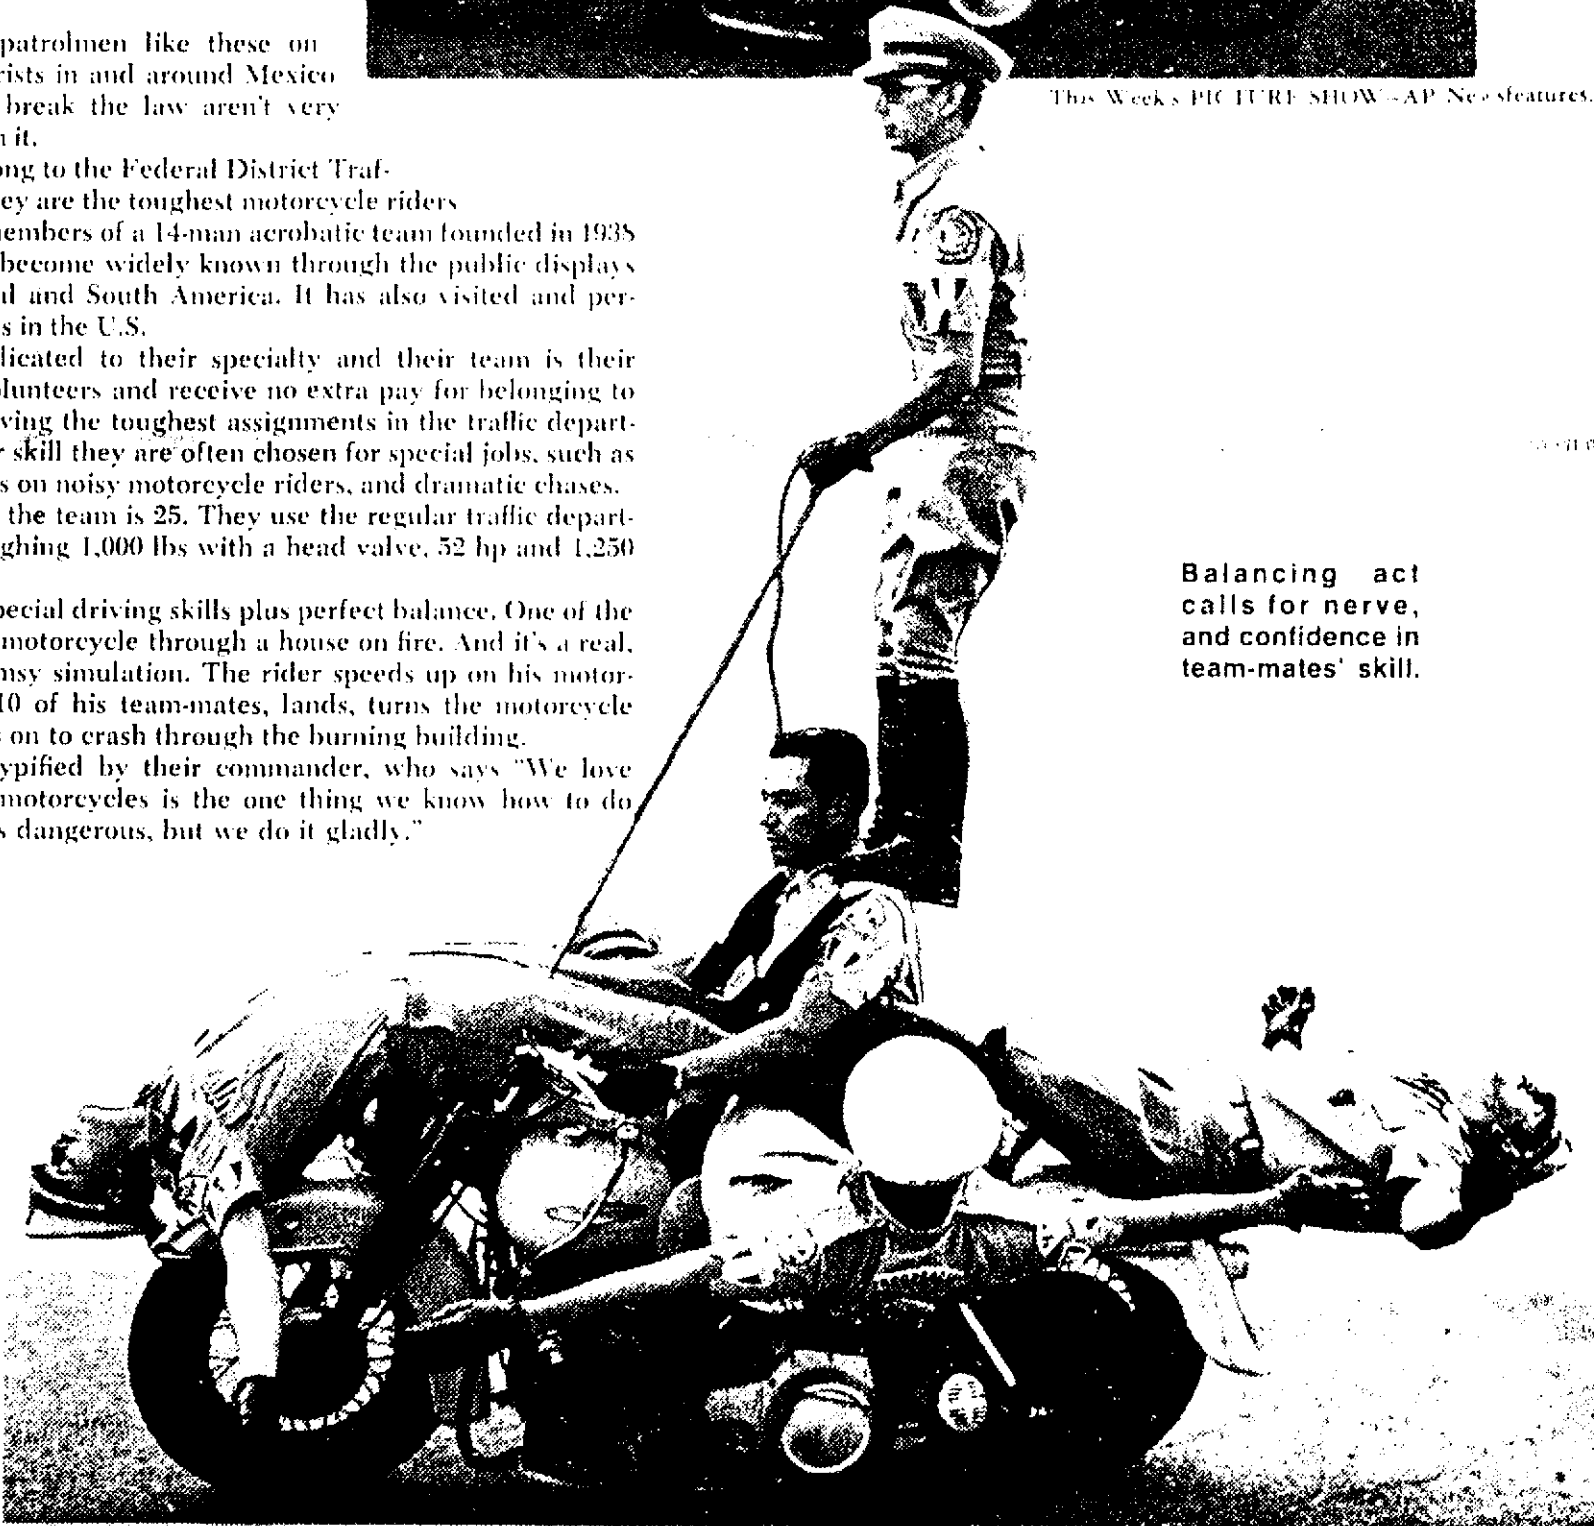

The patrolmen belong to the Federal District Traffic Department and they are the toughest motorcycle riders in Mexico. They are members of a 14-man acrobatic team founded in 1935 which has since then become widely known through the public displays it has given in Central and South America. It has also visited and performed in several cities in the U.S.

The riders are dedicated to their specialty and their team is their pride. They are all volunteers and receive no extra pay for belonging to the team, nor for drawing the toughest assignments in the traffic department. Because of their skill they are often chosen for special jobs, such as crack-down campaigns on noisy motorcycle riders, and dramatic chases.

The average age of the team is 25. They use the regular traffic department motorcycles weighing 1,000 lbs with a head valve, 52 hp and 1,250 cc.

Each act calls for special driving skills plus perfect balance. One of the acts includes riding a motorcycle through a house on fire. And it's a real, solid house—not a flimsy simulation. The rider speeds up on his motorcycle, jumps it over 10 of his team-mates, lands, turns the motorcycle around and then races on to crash through the burning building.

The acrobats are typified by their commander, who says "We love motorcycles. Driving motorcycles is the one thing we know how to do best... What we do is dangerous, but we do it gladly."

Balancing act calls for nerve, and confidence in team-mates' skill.

Team spirit carried to great lengths!

HOPEFUL TOPS MEET

The Hopeful Tops Club's 23 members present at last Monday's meeting lost 19 pounds and 12 ozs. for the week. The monthly business included voting in favor of purchasing plaques and charms for those losing 10 pounds, half-way to their goal, three fourths of their extra weight each month, etc. These will give added incentive to lose.

A questionnaire was completed to add the panel discussion planned for next Monday night entitled "Why We Eat Too much. A Psychological Probe into Fatness." The meeting is at 7:30 p.m. in the Douglas Building. Anyone who is trying to reduce is invited.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Periodontal Disease Can Be Arrested

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Can pyorrhea be cured? And why do periodontists charge such exorbitant prices?

ANSWER: The name pyorrhea is an old one and not often used these days. Periodontal disease is the term now used to describe infection and abnormal changes that occur around (peri) the teeth (donta), mainly the gums and bony supporting structure.

Dentists who specialize in this treatment are called periodontists and we need about 20 times as many of them as we now have.

Can periodontal disease be cured? Probably not. I think most periodontists will admit to that. BUT, while a complete "cure" is not yet available, periodontal disease can be arrested; infection can be eliminated; premature loss of teeth can be prevented and the chewing apparatus can be restored and maintained in healthy condition for many extra years.

There are many causes of periodontal disease and many organisms seem to be involved. But much research work is being done and cures may be available some day.

As to exorbitant fees that periodontists supposedly charge, they are probably not out of line with the rest of our over-inflated economy.

I've heard dentists say that many of the new and exciting things that dentistry is now capable of doing to save teeth are much too expensive for most people and are available only to a small percentage of our population who can afford to pay the high fees. Everything costs too, too much. In fact, I don't know any more how much is too much.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: What makes my dentures in their community groups.

Pictured above is a group of Extension Homemakers Club Home Grounds leaders as they met recently to receive training on "Pride in Your Surroundings" presented by Calvin J. Caldwell County Extension Agent.

Leaders left tonight around table are Mrs. Thelma Key,

Mrs. Lawrence Easterling, Mrs. William Stephenson, Mrs. Hugh Gilbert, Mrs. Alphonso Denham, Associate Extension Home Economist, Mrs. Eugene Collums, Mrs. George Hartsfield, Mrs. Marion Hubbard, Mrs. Lillie Thompson, Mrs. Lella Jordan, Mrs. Wilma Dugger, Mrs. William Altom, Mrs. Earl Martin, Mrs. A.M. Hewitt.

Extension Homemakers Week (May 3-9) is time to recognize these leaders for their educational role in helping keep homemakers up-to-date and make adjustments to the ever-changing homemaking role.

Homemakers examine frozen products and pose questions about freezing problems to be answered in educational meetings on freezing to be presented by the Cooperative Extension Service Wednesday, May 13, and Thursday, May 14, from 1:00 — 3:00 p.m. in the Coliseum.

click when I eat? And what can be done about it? It's so embarrassing when I'm out in company.

ANSWER: Porcelain teeth in dentures can produce clicking when brought sharply together. Some denture wearers seem to take special delight in clicking, emphasizing a word or phrase with a resounding click that's almost as sharp and beautiful as the click made by a perfect mashie shot to the green.

Replace porcelain teeth with plastic ones to eliminate clicking from your dentures.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Mrs. Finis Odom, Mrs. Wayne Attebury, Greg Odom, Mrs. David Cummings, and Mrs. H.L. Buffington.

These homemakers plan to attend the meetings and find out some reasons—the "ways and hows"—for getting the most fresh flavor, color, texture, and nutritive value from foods they freeze.

Dolores McBride, Extension Home Economics, says the meetings will center upon freezing problems as have been asked by the homemakers and discussed with equipment dealers.

Homemakers are encouraged to demand high-quality frozen products. Attend the meetings May 13-14. Approach the freezing season prepared to offer your family top-quality products and the most convenience possible through a home freezer.

South was a firm believer in getting there with the first no-trump. The fact that he held only 20 high-card points and that his distribution indicated the desirability of exploration of minor-suit possibilities did not deter him from opening two no-trump. North tries Stayman to find out about a possible 4-4 heart fit and then settled for three no-trump.

South ducked the first heart and won the second. The he started blithely after diamonds. Unfortunately for South, East showed out on the second diamond and the suit blocked. Therefore, South fell back on the spade finesse. West produced the king and cashed three heart tricks to leave declarer one in the soup.

North was bitter. "Before you start hogging the no-trumps," he said, "why don't you learn to play them?"

South didn't see what he could have done. Do you?

The answer is that South should have won the first diamond with his king and the second in dummy. He would have received the bad news then but could have insured his contract by leading a heart and discarding one of his diamonds.

West would take three heart tricks plus East's first one, but that would be all. South would be able to make his five diamonds.

Just to show how unfortunate South's choice of the two no-trump opening was, the chances are that a club bid would have found North working away at six diamonds. East could beat six diamonds with a heart lead but East would almost surely have led something else. With any other lead, North could make the slam by careful play. In any case, no lead could hurt five diamonds.

Phony License Blanks

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police said today a Washington D.C. company has been mailing driver's license forms to Arkansas.

Lt. Col. William C. Miller, assistant director of the State Police, said the company was Standard Forms of Washington. Miller said the forms are blank and do not even look like an Arkansas driver's license. The blank forms cost $1. to persons who request them.

Miller said he did not know how many of the forms had been mailed to Arkansas but that most of the forms had been sent to persons in the North Central Arkansas counties. Miller said the company is able to "keep out of hot water" by sending the forms blank. The recipient has to fill in all the details.

"We checked with the attorney general and postal inspectors and they say there is no

30 Home Runs in 7 Games in National

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Going... going... gone.
That was the National League story Friday as big sluggers and light hitters alike zeroed in on the fences for a record 30 home runs in a mere seven games.

It was the most ever hit in one day in the NL—the old mark was 28 in eight games on July 8, 1962—and matched the American and major league record set June 10, 1962, and repeated June 14, 1964, both times in 10 games.

You couldn't blame the pitchers for suspecting that someone had slipped in the juiced-up experimental baseball as one after another shot over the fences.
Willie Mays of the Giants, Tony Perez and Hal McRae of the Reds, Billy Williams of the Cubs and Bob Robertson of the Pirates walloped two apiece to set the pace. But the list also included blasts by such unrenowned sluggers as Van Kelly, Chris Cannizzaro, Bob Barton and Dave Campbell of the Padres, Gary Sutherland of the Expos, Byron Browne of the Phillies and Hal King of the Dave Roberts of the Padres got into the act, and his was the last one of the night to equal the AL standard.

When the bombing had subsided, these were the results: Chicago Cubs 10, Cincinnati 7; Atlanta 8, St. Louis 7; Houston 7, New York Mets 1; Pittsburgh 5, Los Angeles 8; Philadelphia 4 in 12 innings; San Diego 11, Montreal 1 in the 11-inning nightcap.

In the American League, it was Baltimore 6, Chicago White Sox 1; Minnesota 7, Cleveland 6; Kansas City 9, Detroit 3; Oakland 7, Boston 1 and California 4, New York Yankees 3.

The Cubs and Reds combined for nine homers in their slugfest, with Williams driving in four runs as Chicago's six-game losing streak and Cincinnati's string of eight victories ended.

Besides Williams, Perez and McRae, J. C. Martin and Jim Hickman of the Cubs and Johnny Bench of the Reds also homered in the seventh inning enabled the Braves to edge the Cardinals. It served the Cards right since they were the only team that didn't contribute to the home run barrage.

Hank Aaron got the Braves even in the sixth with a three-run homer off Bob Gibson, his 12th of the season. Rico Carty extended his hitting streak to 26 games with an infield single and the Braves matched their longest winning skid—10 games—since they moved from Milwaukee. Mays showed his old New York fans a thing or two and his two homers—career Nos. 605 and 606—helped rookie Miguel Puello to his first big league triumph.

Bobby Bonds hit an inside-the-park shot for the Giants while New York's Ken Boswell spoiled Puello's shutout bid with a solo shot in the eighth.

Tommie Agee of the Mets set a club record by hitting in his 19th straight game.

Pitcher Jim Ray's infield hit broke a sixth-inning deadlock and Joe Morgan followed with a two-run triple to spark Houston past Pittsburgh, despite Robertson's two homers. Doug Roberts connected for the Astros.

The Dodgers snapped a 4-4 tie

Knicks Whip Lakers for Cage Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Where

there's a Willis, there's a way.

And the New York Knicks found that way behind pain-ravaged Willis Reed Friday night, beating the Los Angeles Lakers with surprising ease 113-99 to win the National Basketball Association title.

New York's ace center, playing "because there's no tomorrow" and loaded with pain-killing cortisone, provided a physical and inspirational lift to give the Knicks their first championship in the final, seventh game before a deafening full house at Madison Square Garden.

"The fans were just great,

and I didn't want to disappoint them," Reed said in the champagne-drenched euphoria of the winner's dressing room. "When I was warming up, there was a lot of questions in my mind.

"I said to myself, you must do the job... your team needs

you."

"Probably a lot of guys

wouldn't have played in his condition," said a disappointed Jerry West, the Lakers' super guard, who lost his seventh playoff series. "It was a real tribute to the man that he was out there at all."

Reed, the NBA's Most Valuable Player and the Knicks' acknowledged leader, badly bruised his right hip in Monday's fifth game here. He sat out Wednesday night's loss to the Lakers that tied the series at 3-3.

Before the final game, he had two pain-killing shots pumped into the right hip area. Then, just before game time, he walked onto the court amid a thundering, standing ovation.

Reed had said before the game, "I'll play if I can crawl."

He almost had to.

His opponent at center, Wilt

Chamberlain, beat him down the court on many plays in the first half. Reed was playing on one leg. He grimaced and hobbled, but got the job done—that is, he stopped Chamberlain.

"I was apprehensive from the first moment he stepped on the court," said Red Holzman, the Knicks' coach who was soaked from a dressing room champagne shower. "We meant to use Willis defensively from the start. He knew what he had to do."

Reed also got the Knicks going offensively. He scored the Knicks' first two field goals with his needle-threading jumper from the Key. That brought Chamberlain out, and nullified his awesome rebounding pres-

While Reed draped himself around Chamberlain, Walt Frazier scored 15 of his game-high 36 points. This helped the Knicks to a 38-24 first quarter edge, and it was all downhill for

New York after that.

Reed played the first half, as

New York all but buried the hopes of the bridesmaid Lakers with a 69-42 lead. He got another pain-killing shot at the in-

of the third quarter.

At the 5:44 mark, backup cen-

"Willis told me how to play

"He told me to just keep my el-

FBI Upholds Unremembered on His Visit Here, Henry Now Is Identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says law enforcement agencies were not to blame for confrontations between the Black Panther party and police.

Testimony released today by a House appropriations subcommittee quoted Hoover as saying police in several cities have been "wrongly accused of harassment by many well intentioned but uninformed voices echoing outright lies generated" by the Panthers.

"A free society is in trouble when blatant propaganda so overshadows the truth that the rule of law is jeopardized," Hoover said in his testimony March 5.

Although Hoover strongly defended police in each instance, a special federal investigation is still under way in connection with the fatal shootings of two Black Panthers last December by Chicago police.

But Hoover attributed Panther-police clashes in both Chicago and Los Angeles to the militant black organization's "intense hatred of and vindictive hysteria against local police."

He described the Panthers as a "black extremist organization" consisting mostly of "hoodlum-type revolutionaries," who stockpile weapons, espouse Marxist-Leninist doctrines and terrorize black communities.

While condemning the Panthers, Hoover also attacked "prominent individuals" who, he said, have made "substantial contributions" to legal defense funds for party members accused of crimes.

Specifically, he named composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein, film director Otto Preminger, black entertainer Dick Gregory and the wives of orchestra leader Peter Duchin and film director Sidney Lumet.

"Let us clear away the rhetoric and confusion purposely generated to shroud the Black Panther issue and get it back into proper perspective," Hoover said.

"An organization which stockpiles illegal weapons, trains in guerrilla warfare and seeks confrontation with enforcement officers for the expressed purpose of killing them is certainly in violation of the law."

"Yet," he added, "when law process is applied to bring the Black Panthers under control, their cries of genocide and harassment are seemingly accepted without question."

Besides lambasting the Panthers, Hoover also criticized judges in Detroit, Washington, Philadelphia and St. Louis, contending they delivered light sentences to hardened criminals.

His name is Harry, and he was born in Hope. But when he came to town a few weeks ago with a friend from Little Rock, a few inquiries of local citizens could produce no recollection of Harry's family. Disappointed, the two nice looking, nicely dressed men departed after their fruitless search.

Fortunately, the story does not end there. You see, they had questioned a local merchant who is a life-long resident of Hope, and he, in turn, had inquired of others regarding the family in question. It took a little while and a lot of looking back, because nearly 50 years had passed since Harry, his two brothers and sister had left Hope with their parents. They had only lived here two years, but people DID remember them. . . .

Very soon, after the close of World War I, the Grabstads, a family of Polish Jews, immigrated from their war-torn land to the United States and came to Hope for some unknown reason. The father, a small bearded fellow, moved into a building on Front Street immediately behind what was then the Capitol Hotel, now Jack's News Stand, where he carried on his business and lived in the back of the building.

It seems that he would buy worn-out shoes or have them given to him; he would rebuild them and sell them for anything he could get for them. His business was not confined to shoes, for he would buy or sell anything he could manage to acquire. However, since his English was so limited and his knowledge of our monetary system so poor, he had a hard time making his transactions. He and his family must have become very lonely, for in less than two years they moved to Texarkana, where quite a few immigrants were living. Then, it was on to Dallas a short time later. There, the Grabstads settled and the children grew up. The older sister, Sarah, still lives in Dallas.

When the boys in school wore knickerbockers with their long black stockings, the two elder Grabstads boys, Mike and Jacob, were wearing straight bottom short pants, and sometimes the shorts and black stockings didn't meet. One of the things remembered about the boys was that some of the first English words they learned were "cuss" words. They would call another boy a dirty name and perhaps not realize what they were saying. Needless to say, the boys had a hard time in school and weren't taken into an inner circle of friends simply because they were different. However, no one remembers that they were ever mistreated. . . .

Dr. Harry Grabstald of New York City and Dr. Jack Mobley of Little Rock were the visitors in Hope we mentioned at the beginning of this account. Dr. Grabstald had been in Little Rock for some special work with Dr. Mobley, Professor and head of the Department of Urology, U of A Medical Center, and being so close to the birthplace of the former, they motored to Hope. Born in Hope of immigrant parents, Dr. Harry Grabstald is now attending Surgeon, Urology Service, Memorial Hospital in New York City. Truly, America is the land of opportunity for those willing to apply themselves and to work toward a goal.

Technology Expected to Feed Millions

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A massive injection of technology can keep the world fed over the next 30 years despite booming population, an eminent scientist says.

"The natural resources available to present technology are sufficient to allow a vast improvement in the standard of living of all the people who will inhabit the earth 20 to 30 years from now," said Dr. Robert Reville, director of the Harvard Center for Population Studies.

Speaking at the opening of a three-day conference on technological change and population growth Wednesday at California Institute of Technology, Reville asserted that birth control—although necessary—cannot be a substitute for economic development.

Some at the conference disagreed with Reville.

Children's Colony Gets Legal Advice

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office suggested to the Arkansas Children's Colony today that it ask permission to appoint a colony purchasing official.

The suggestion of Deputy Atty. Gen. Les Evitts came after Bill Hoggard, colony business manager, told the office that the colony had difficulty in buying food through the purchasing division of the state Administration Department.

The colony, unlike most state agencies that purchase food for patients, students or others, is not exempt from the state purchasing act, which requires the institution to send the purchasing division its purchase requirements.

Under the act, the division takes bids on the colony requirements. The act, however, allows the state purchasing director to authorize a nonexempt agency to appoint a purchasing official who would buy for the agency, although the official's actions would need division approval.

Industries for War in Cambodia

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The nation's top industrialists almost unanimously support the U.S. drive into Cambodia to express grave concern over public pessimism and uncertainty and—in a few cases—sharply criticize Nixon's handling of antiwar protests on college campuses.

Some members of the Business Council, opening their spring meeting here with five Cabinet officers and other high administration officials, told reporters privately they feel the psychological impact of the Cambodia incursions could turn into a real recession.

One industry leader said he felt that not only the administration but members of the business community "should get out on the campuses and do more talking and listening to young people—I think they will listen if we try it."

Several businessmen agreed that public confidence had been seriously shaken by apprehension over the possible spreading of warfare in Southeast Asia, as reflected in the stock market slump, the revival of fears of prolonged inflation, and the resurgence of violent demonstrations across the country.

Some also concurred in the hard line taken by Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on youthful protesters. One observed: "The country can use a little more discipline and a little less affluence."

Cambodia Is the Way to Peace: Nixon

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has defended his Southeast Asia policy as the road to the quick peace his critics demand, while indicating a willingness to listen to the demonstrators gathered by the thousands near the White House today to protest U.S. involvement in Indochina.

The President pledged in a nationally broadcast news conference Friday night—his first since Jan. 30—to spend all of today in a White House ringed by antiwar demonstrators and security forces. He raised the possibility of a face-to-face meeting with some of the mostly student dissidents.

The chief executive took a generally conciliatory attitude toward college-age protesters during the 33-minute session with reporters, while arguing his decision to send U.S. ground troops into Cambodia offers the best chance of achieving peace.

Even as Nixon spoke, scores of young people lined the Pennsylvania Avenue fence in front of the executive mansion, singing, chanting obscenities and placing a myriad of lighted candles atop the wrought iron fence posts.

"I have asked all the younger members of my staff to talk to the demonstrators and try to get their views . . . I will be glad to see them if some of them are available," the President said. Cambodia and campus unrest dominated the news conference, and Nixon said he and the antiwar demonstrators have the same goal in mind—peace in Southeast Asia.

While declaring that he will not attempt to stop Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or other administration officials from speaking their minds, Nixon added a key phrase that presumably he hopes will be taken to heart by government spokesmen:

"I would hope that all of the members of this administration would have in mind . . . a rule that I have always had, and it is a very simple one: When the action is hot, keep the rhetoric cool."

And, in Boise, Idaho, Agnew followed that advice. He eliminated some caustic comments from a prepared speech, saying he was toning down his remarks in defending the administration's Cambodia policy.

Agnew delayed his talk to a GOP dinner until after Nixon's news conference and then said: "If my abandonment of the first two pages of this speech in some small way will help cool the violent situation in the United States, I'm going to do it."

The vice president scrapped the already-released references to "choleric young intellectuals" and tired, embittered elders' mounting "shrill attacks" against the administration.

Nixon said Agnew "will answer for anything that he has said" and added he would no more censor his vice president than he would muzzle Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, who recently cautioned Nixon in a personal letter of the dangers of alienating the nation's youth.

Colorado State Bldg. Is Burned

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Fire believed caused by an arsonist destroyed the oldest building on the Colorado State University campus early today.

President A.R. Chamberlain said, "One is led to believe the fire surely is the work of a sick person bent on attempting to shut the university by terrorist tactics . . . I believe it is absolutely critical this senseless act of destruction not be permitted to accomplish its purpose . . . We will not close down because of this act."

Rebel Preacher Leads Rally Demonstrators Jam Capital

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — The Rev. Carl McIntire, who recently conducted a prowar rally in Washington, will lead a Vietnam victory rally here May 14.

McIntire, who recently returned from Cambodia, is the pastor of the Bible Presbyterian Church in Collingwood, N.J.

Estimates ranged from 35,000 to as many as 200,000 on the number taking part in the events organized by the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Most of the activity for the antiwar demonstration and "teach-in" was scheduled for the Ellipse, the huge tree-lined park area just across the south lawn from the White House.

The Nixon administration took several conciliatory steps in an effort to see that the demonstration remained peaceful. The government, however, also prepared itself should violence break out.

The White House and an area around it—bounded by E, 17th, H, and 15th streets N.W.—was to be cordoned off from the public beginning at 6 a.m. EDT.

The Defense Department said about 5,600 regular soldiers and Marines were standing by in federal facilities to help the National Guard and law enforcement agencies if they are needed.

Leaders of the demonstration had stressed, however, the protesters wanted to avoid violence of any kind.

"We have not come here to go to jail," said Ron Young, a coordinator for the New Mobe. "We want to militantly but nonviolently demonstrate in the face of the White House."

Nixon, in his radio and television news conference Friday, told the nation that he wanted the same thing that the dissenters hoped to achieve—peace in Southeast Asia.

"They are trying to say that they want peace," he said. "They are trying to say that they want to stop the killing. They are trying to say that they want to end the draft. They are trying to say that we ought to get out of Vietnam."

"I agree with everything that they are trying to accomplish," Nixon said.

Nixon also said he would be glad to meet with some of the leaders of the demonstration if arrangements could be made to do so.

Later, the New Mobe asked the three television networks for equal time to reply to what the leaders called "political misplacement in front of the north lawn of the White House, some of them chanting, others carrying lighted candles. Scores of candles were placed on the heavy iron fence in front of the White House along Pennsylvania Avenue but were outshone by enormous floodlights bathing the area."

Some protesters carried four coffins, each bearing one word of "Thou Shall Not Kill."

Near the Washington Monument, tens of thousands of young people chanted obscenities as Nixon's talk was broadcast. Throughout his remarks, Nixon's words were drowned out by chants of "One, two, three, four, we don't want your war."

Starting at eight o'clock, if one can get a call through, Dave has his all-request show. "Baby, when things get up tight, the phone never stops," he said, "I need about four arms, another set of legs and a helper or two. But really, it's not that bad, and anyway I love every minute of it. We talk, the kids and I, on the phone."

When asked what they talk about, Dave says, "Well, I guess at one time or the other, just about everything. Sometimes one of the kids will have a problem with homework and I will do what I can to help with it."

"They tell me about their hobbies and clubs and things of that sort. Sometime someone will tell me that their father and mother yelled at them, in these cases, I just listen. That seems to be enough."

So this is just the beginning of the story of "old man" Dave. A young man with a love for people and already people are loving him back.

230 Black Panther Arrests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's police have made more than 230 arrests of Black Panther party members in the last year on charges ranging from jaywalking to murder, a nationwide survey shows.

These arrests have resulted in about 40 convictions, the Associated Press survey also disclosed. In more than 60 cases, the defendants were acquitted or the charges were dropped. The rest of the cases are pending.

The AP survey included more than a dozen cities where Panthers have been active. It covered arrests made since May 1, 1969.

The Panthers themselves say the arrest total is much higher than 230. In the last eight months of 1969 alone, according to the party's newspaper, there were 402 arrests of Panthers.

"There probably aren't any members, except maybe a few girls, who haven't been arrested," said Chaka Walls, the Panther's deputy minister for information in Chicago.

In California, the party brought a federal court suit contending authorities had, by repeated arrests, interfered with members' constitutional rights. Between August and January, the suit said, 18 party members in San Diego had been arrested a total of 30 times on 42 charges, but that 27 of the charges were later dropped.

This suit was filed in January. It was followed in April by another suit, this one seeking $10 million in damages and accusing the Los Angeles police department of harassing party members. It cited, among other incidents, a police-Panther shootout in Los Angeles last Dec. 8 which left three police and three Panthers wounded and brought 11 arrests.

In Chicago, the scene of another police-Panther shootout which killed two Panthers and wounded two policemen, there have been some 90 arrests of party members in the past year.
